Mother Charged With Killing Her Infant Child.

Attempted Suicide-Shot Himself in the Breast-Other Notes of General Interest.

Saturday last a baby was found in the ewer on St. Asaph street between Gibbon and Wilkes streets, and police headquarters was notified, and Sergeant Smith, who investigated, fourd it was true, and notified Corener Turbis. He had the body removed to Demaine's undertaking establishment. Coroner Turbis performed an autopsy, and the inquest was held yesterday afternoon and adjourned until this evening. In the meantime the police are trying to find out the mother of the child. They arrested Ruth Carroll, a nineteenyear-old colored girl, and charged her with being the mother and locked her up at the station horse. When seen by a Star man she made the following confession: She said she had been to a festival Wednesday night last, and was on her way home alone, and when she arrived at the corner of Wilkes and St. Asaph streets she was taken sick, and then, without assistance, gave birth to the child. Not knowing what to do, as she was afraid of her mother, she threw the child into the sewer and went home, and did not tell any one what had happened to her. She further said that she knew the child was alive when born, for she heard it cry. She gave the name of a prominent business man on King street as the father of the said that she knew the child was alive when born, for she heard it cry. She gave the name of a prominent business was now King street as the father of the said that she was now the said that she was the said that she was now to said that She will be carried before the coroner's inquest and will doubtless be held for the grand jury. The offense is considered very grave in this state, and the penalty is im prisonment for from one to eighteen years or hanging, in the discretion of the jury.

Attempted Suicide. This city was again thrown into a high state of excitement yesterday morni about 11 o'clock. James Clark, better known as "Jim Pooderley," attempted to take his life by shooting himself at his home, 812 Queen street. For several days James had been on a spree and was very despondent. Yesterday morning, however, he seemed to be in brighter spirits. He arose about 8 o'clock and prepared himself for the street and told his mother that he was going out for a short while. About 11 o'clock he re-turned and went into his back yard and placed a revolver to his breast and pulled the trigger, and fell to the ground with an ugly wound in his left breast. Several neighbors who heard the report hastened to the scene and carried the wounded man into the house, and Drs. Miller and O'Brien were summoned. The physicians made an examination and found that the ball had entered the left breast just above the heart. They probed for the ball, but were unsuccessful. They think, however, that the ball lodged near the shoulder blade. The man is said to have been de-

THE STEEL TRUST.

It Will Not Affect the Prices of Armor

There has been some talk among wellposted Congressmen to the effect that the organization of the big steel trust might affect to a large extent the bids on the new warships for which Congress is about to provide, and that it might even prevent the building of four ships as now contem-

Talking on the subject today, a New York representative said to a Star reporter that the Navy Department had looked into this phase of the question and had obtained promises from the representatives of the companies making up the trust that there would be no increase in the price of armor plate where the government was concerned. The department also obtained favorable concessions in the way of cheap-

The fear was that the trust would be able to "do" the government for thou-sands of dollars, and go to the extent, as stated, of seriously standing in the way of the building of four new ships. The foresight of the Navy Department in obtain-ing concessions and in looking into the sub-ject in advance is commended.

The trust people, however, are said to have realized that if they had advanced the price of armor plate on the govern-ment there would at once have been a big demand for the establishment of an armor plate plant by the government. The demand might have become a reality and the trust would have found itself badly crippled. This is probably why the trust made concessions to the government, it is thought.

LIEUT. SCHOFIELD'S HEARING.

Two Examinations Have Found It to

Be Defective. Second Lieut. R. McA. Schofield, fourth cavalry, son of Lieut. Gen. Schofield, retired, is having great trouble in securing his promotion. At his first examination, several months ago, it was found that his hearing was defective. On the theory that the disability might only be temporary, he was given a second examination recently. The result, however, was the same as before. In order to give him another chance, he has been granted leave of absence for one year, at the expiration of which time, he will be again examined to determine his fitness for promotion.

If he shall then be found physically incapacitated it will be for the Secretary of War to determine whether his disability arose before or since he entered the service. If it existed before he entered the army he will be dropped from the rolls, but if it should prove that his infirmity is an incident to the service he will be placed on the rolls of the rolls. on the retired list.

Features of the Coming Christian Endeavor Convention.

Many Simultaneous Meetings Are Provided for by Mr. Baer.

DENOMINATIONAL RALLIES

There was received at Christian Endeavor headquarters this morning the first definite information regarding the program to be carried out during the fifteenth international convention, the sessions of which will be held here in July next. It is yet too soon to have completed the law. minute details for the meetings, which will extend over five days, but the general plan is outlined and the character of the services which are to be held at the different sessions has been decided upon.

Already there are arranged for the convention fully three hundred meetings of all kinds. These will be held in the three mammoth tents to be erected on the White is taking it, has derived great benefit lot, in Central Hall, corner of 9th and B streets, over the market, and in twenty or thirty of the largest and most centrally located churches in the city. In addition, there will be numerous evangelistic services in all parts of the city, conducted by the delegates themselves. Denominational rallies and committee conferences will take up three sessions, and with such a large number of services being held simultaneously the significance of the remark that the approaching gathering will be a "convention of conventions" can better be realized.

In connection with the fifteenth international Christian Endeavor convention Washington will have the honor of being washington will have the honor of being the meeting place of the first annual convention of the World's Union of Christian Endeavor, the organization of which was effected in Boston last July.

One feature of the program will be especially appreciated by the citizens of Washington and the members of the local Endeavor societies. Heretofore such a multitude of delegates and visitors has swarmed to a convention city that the swarmed to a convention city that the halls, tents and other meeting places could nardly accommodate such crowds, and the residents of the entertaining city had the smallest possible chance of securing admission to the meetings.

But in arranging for the convention this year such a shortcoming has been remedied, and special services for Washingtonians, from which all visiting delegates will be excluded, have been arranged.

The information as to program plans was received this morning by Mr. John B. Sle-nan, jr., chairman of the press committee of the committee of '96, and was in the form of a letter from Mr. John Willis Baer, gen-eral secretary of the United Society in Boston. In his letter Mr. Baer says:

Outline of Program.

"The fifteenth international Christian Endeavor convention will open in Washington, D. C., Wednesday evening, July 8, with twenty-two meetings in twenty-two of the largest churches in the city. These opening up' before the hour for beginning the program.

(for this year there are to be two afternoons given up to these rallies) will be held Thurs-day afternoon in the churches. The three large tents will be used by the Presby-terians, the Congregationalists and the Bap-

"Thursday night the general topic for all the meetings is 'Christian Citizenship.' In addition to the three tents, Central Hall and five or six of the largest churches of the city will be used for these meetings. 'The topic for the next day, Friday, is 'Saved to Serve.' The morning meetings will be held in the three tents. The practical committee conferences will be held in the churches in the afternoon. In the even irg one of the tents will be given over to an evangelistic meeting for the citizens of Washington; and in the other two tents, Central Hall and six churches will be especially attractive programs for Endeavor

"Saturday morning at 9:30 will be held the first great out-door praise service at the Washington monument. Then there will be a march up Pennsylvania avenue to the Capitol, when it is hoped a brief address will be given from the steps of the seat of government. The afternoon is to be given up to sightseeing. At 5:30 another outdoor song service will be held, and the evening will be given up to receptions in the churches and to state rallies. "The juniors' day is Saturday. There will be held in one of the churches an early morning prayer meeting. This is the first "Saturday evening, while the Endeavorers are in attendance upon their state rallies and receptions, in the three tents will be held meetings for citizens only. The speakers will be the trustees of the United Society and leading evangelists.

"The tents will be closed Sunday morning, and all will attend the Sunday schools and regular church services. In the afternoon, in one tent, will be held an evangelistic meeting, and in the other two and in many churches will be denominational missionary rallies, in charge of the chairmen of the denominational rallies. This is a new feature, and one that we believe is a new feature, and one that we believe will prove to be a great success. In Central Hall, on Sunday afternoon, a meeting devoted wholly to the question of the American Sunday will be arranged. The tents will be closed in the evening, and the regu-"Monday morning will be given over to the World's Union of Christian Endeavor for its first annual convention, the after-noon to excursions, and in the evening the convention will close with the sermons and usual consecration services in each of the three tents, Central Hall, and five or six large churches." Several New Features.

It will be noticed that the program, as outlined in Mr. Baer's letter, contains several new features, and, besides the religlous services, gives the delegates an opportunity for sightseeing and excursions as well as for the state rallies and recep-tions by tocal churches, which will be held Saturday evening.

OLEOMARGARINE CASES.

The Defendants File Demurrers to the Indictments.

Messrs. Henry E. Davis and Jere M. Wilson, counsel for Wilkes C. Prather, Thomas H. Pickford, William B. Matthews and Clarence E. Fowler, indicted last December for violating the oleomargarine law, today filed demurrers to the indictments. The demurrers charge that the indictments are fatally defective because, first, that they are not sufficient in law; second, that the act under which they are framed is unconstitutional: third, that it is not within the constitutional, third, that it is not within the constitutional power of Congress to delegate to the commissioner of internal revenue, or the Secretary of the Treasury, or any other person, retary of the Treasury, or any other person, the authority or power to determine what acts shall be criminal, and, fourth, that said act does not define what acts done or omitted shall constitute a criminal offense?

Because of the illness of Mr. Davis, Judge Cole postponed the consideration of the matter until next Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Should Judge Cole then overrule the demurrers, it is the intention of District Attorney Birney to call the cases for trial the next morning in Criminal Court No. 1. It is understood that similar objections to the indictments will be made by all the other parties indicted for this alleged offense.

Punish Him.

He Was Living Here With Another Woman as His Wife-Scene at Headquarters-Mr. Birney Relents.

Cornelius Teehan, who has lived in this world nearly fifty years, has played a double game of love, so it is charged, for two years, and this morning he turned deathly pale when he met in Inspector Hollinberger's room the woman whom he had promised to love, honor, protect and keep. He had not kept these promises, so she charged, and she had come more than 800 miles to find him and bring about a settlement. So badly frightened was the husband that he was willing to agree to any terms to prevent a criminal prosecution for an alleged violation of the Edmunds

Two weeks ago Inspector Hollinberger received a letter from the chief of police of Chicago making inquiries concerning Tee-han, who had left there about two years ago. As the Commissioners want this class of cases attended to by the men in the precincts, and not by the members of the detective corps, Precinct Detective McGlue was called in. He was selected for the reason that "Mr. Teehan and his wife" lived in his precinct, at No. 624 22d street. The man was employed in a local tee street. man was employed in a local tea store. man was employed in a local tea store.

The precinct detective soon learned the facts in the case. Teehan was living at the address mentioned, and with him was the woman whom he introduced as his wife.

They lived in the house of the so-called wife's parents, "Mrs. Teehan" having been a widow named Ida Myers.

Whether or not they had been married according to the laws of the land the police go not know, but they think they were married, and that the lady is an innocent victim. She is prominent in church work.

victim. She is prominent in church work, and it is said that he has also been identiled in the church.

This information was sent to the Chicago police, and Friday the nah's Chicago wife came here and saw Inspector Hollinberger. She did not go near her husband, for fear he would become frightened and leave, but when she had obtained the necessary proof, as she believed, she called at the Police Court and swore out a warrant charging him with the offense stated. Her husband had net Widow Myers at the world's fair, so she claimed, and had said he was a widower. He was a good salesman, and so when he came here he experienced no trouble in getting a position.

When the warrant had been sworn out Mrs. Teehan scated herself in the office of Inspector Hollinberger, and there awaited the coming, in charge of an officer, the man who, she charged, had deserted her or another.

In due course of time he appeared, and as Inspector Hollinberger put it, he turned as white as a sheet when his eyes fell upon as white as a sheet when his eyes icil upon his wife. There was not that outward manifestation of love which usually marks a meeting after such a long absence, but the woman's tongue came down upon her husbend, and rattled off questions and statements which made him rather uncomstatements which made him rather uncomfertable.

But behind it all was a spark of love in her heart which even the husband's conduct had not extinguished. She did not want him punished. To send him to prison she realized would perhaps humiliate him and it might also punish him, but this she lid not want done. She was willing to forgive and forget if he would only forsake the one with whom he had been living and return to the one of his choice in his younger days. He was willing to compromise upon any terms. He realized only too well what the issuance of a warrant meant, and he did not want to Finally the husband and wife reached an understanding, and the officer went with them to the office of Mr. Birney, the prosecuting attorney. There the facts in the case were told and the man repeated the promises he had made when in Inspector Hollinberger's room.

Mr. Birney listened attentively to what was said, and at first he preferred to have the case settled in court, but finally, when could no longer resist the wife's entreaties, he consented that a nolle pros. should be entered in the case and the man and wife be reunited. Teehan wanted to return to Chicago, but the husband objected, and she expressed a willingness to remain here with him. The Washington Wife.

This afternoon Teehan's Washington wife called at headquarters, and nearly fainted when she heard of the man's conduct. She says she was married to Teehan in this city, but does not want to prosecute him. She has a marriage certificate. The police, however, have been ordered to rearrest him, and a charge of bigamy may TO PREVENT SMALLPOX.

Officers and Crews of Mississippi Steamboats to Be Vaccinated.

The city of New Orleans and other southern river ports have annually suffered severely from smallpox, the scourge being carried up and down the stream by the crews of the boats that ply for traffic along the hundreds of miles of that river and its tributaries. The marine hospital service last season endeavored to check this spread of the disease, and this spring, in anticipation of the opening of the active navigation of the river, Surgeon Henry W. Sawtelle, in charge of the New Orleans district, asked Surgeon General Wyman for authority to take the necessary steps. This being promptly granted, Dr. Sawtelle issued a circular to the masters, agents and owners of Mississippi river steamboats, in which he said:

"In view of the continued prevalence of smallpox in this city and the surrounding country and the danger of carrying the ing country and the danger of carrying the germs of the disease from one port to another on river steamboats, by direction of the surgeon general of the service, it is proposed to vaccinate the officers and crews of outgoing steamers who are not protected by a recent successful vaccination or ed by a recent successful vaccination or by a previous attack of the disease. A certificate of vaccination will be given to each man vaccinated, and to avoid the possibility of quarantine restrictions at various ports on the rivers, it is recommended that no person be employed on a river boat unless he produces a certificate of vaccination. Vaccinations will be made at the marine hospital office, custom house, between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m., and on board the steamers, if practicable, before sails ing. With your co-peration, as suggested, it is believed that the work of vaccination as outlined will prove to be a valuable aid as outlined will prove to be a valuable aid to the local health authorities in their efforts to suppress a loathsome disease."

Promptly a reply was received from Chas.
P. Truslaw, president of the Steamboat Captains and Owners' Exchange, announc-ing that the organization had unanimously agreed that no men should be shipped on river boats who could not show certificates

Consequently, Surgeon Sawtelle has begun the work, and it is hoped that the rate of smallpox cases in that section will be ma-terially reduced this season.

Found Her Husband Here, but Did Not Impressive Funeral Services Over the Late | Now Farther Off Than Ever From the But-Dr. Addison.

> Bishop Satterlee Conducted the Beautiful Church Proceedings-Honored by the Colonisation Society.

The funeral services over the body of Rev. Thomas G. Addison, who for twentynine years was the honored rector of Trinity P. E. Church, were held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. The church was filled with | Pritchard of North Carolina. the members of the parish and hundreds of the friends of the family.

Shortly after noon today the remains were taken from the rectory, 219 C street, which is next door to the church, to the parish hall, adjoining the church on the north. There in a large room on the lower ficor the body lay in state for a couple of hours. It was viewed by a large throng, which had begun to gather even before the doors were opened. The floral remembrances were unusually numerous and handsome. For the most part they came from personal friends and from church societies, and all day long they were pouring into the hall in an almost unbroken line. All, with the exception of those that were placed upon the casket, were banked around the chancel of the church, and made a beau-tiful display.

Within the chancel the seat by the altar which Dr. Addison used for so many years was heavily draped in black, as was also the rector's pew.

At the hour set for the funeral the line At the hour set for the funeral the line was formed in the parish hall and proceeded through the connecting door into the main edifice, and then up the center nizle. The line was headed by the vested choir of forty male and female voices singing as a processional the hymn, "Hark, Hark, My Soul." As they approached the chancel Bishop Satterlee, who conducted the services spoke the overlag words of the line. ice, spoke the opening words of the im-pressive and beautiful form used in the Fpiscopal Church. The ushers at the church were all members of St. Andrew's Brotherhood, which also furnished the guard of honor while the body lay in state. Bishop Satterlee was in New York yesterday, and preached at Calvary Church. He was desirous of being present at the funeral of an old friend of his, which took place in that city this morning, but he felt that his duty lay with the new diocese, and he came over in time to be present at the funeral service this afternoon to honor the memory of one of the oldest and best loved Episcopal ministers in the city. Al-most all of the local ministers attended the funeral this afternoon, many of them in the vestments of their office.

Impressive Music.

During the service, the choir sang the burial anthem, "Lord, Let Me Know My En i," and the hymn, "Just As I Am." As the funeral procession left the church they sang, "Asleep in Jesus." The interment will be at Oak Hill cemetery, and at the brief committai service will be read and the choir will sing "Nearer, My God, to Thee."

Colonization Society.

Dr. Addison was for eighteen years a member of the executive committee of the American Colonization Society. At a meeting of the committee held Saturday resolutions were adopted expressing the society's loss in Dr. Addison's death, and extending sympathy to the bereaved family. In the course of the resolutions the committee said that in their long association with Dr. Addison, "through many phases of historic interest and grave responsibility in the building up of the Liberian republic on the shores of a distant continent, they found in him a noble Christian minister, a wise counsellor, an earnest advocate, at ardent friend, a genial companion and a courteous gentleman, ever faithful at the post of duty, ever ready to devote his wide experience, his intrepid faith and stirring loquence to the sacred cause in which he The committee attended the funeral in a body. ler-Pritchard Coolness.

One Charge Against the Republicans Made in Mr. Butler's First Circular -Present Unequal Distribution.

The prospective reorganization of the United States Senate is seriously jeopardised by the coolness that has arisen between Senators Marion Butler and Jeter Connelly

It is well known to every republican Senator that the reorganization of the Senate has not been effected because of a lack of two votes. If these votes could be secured. the Senate could be reorganized and the republicans could name about $00 employes. The reorganization ticket approved by the republicans comprises the names of Shaw of Washington, Senator Wilson's candidate for the secretaryship, and Grant of North Carolina, the candidate of Senator Pritchard, for the position of sergeant-at-arms, and by these two officers all the minor places in the Senate would be filled. But little has been said or done during the last few weeks by the republicans looking to reorganization, but efforts have been quietly going on looking to this end.

The Two Lacking Votes.

Two men have been looked to for the two lacking votes, and one of these two men was Marion Butler, whose close relations with Senator Pritchard has made it seem probable that he would be prevailed upon to cast his vote for reorganization with the republicans. Senator Pritchard has been relied upon to deliver this vote, but now the North Carolina Senators scarcely nod their eads in recognition as they meet in the Senate, because of the strained relations brought about by Mr. Butler's course in addressing a circular letter to his followers, advising them not to vote for any one for the senatorship who will not pledge himself to give his support to no one for the presidency who is not an avowed free silver man. he has pledged himself to stand by the republican nominee and to work for free silver within party lines, abiding by the result. Mr. Butler's Allegation.

Senators have given up hope of securing Mr. Butler's vote, and as with that support reorganization would have been extremely difficult to secure, the widening of the breach embarrasses the situation so that the end cannot now be seen. In Senator Butler's circular prepared a few days ago, but withheld for revision, he declares:
"The republicans got nearly twice as much out of the last co-operative fight as we got. The offices which they got amounted to over $100,000 more in salaries than those we got. Then, how absurd it would be to give them both the Senator and governor for the privilege of co-operating with them this year. Besides, if the republicans should elect the President and we should agree for the republicans to name the governor in North Carolina, then think of what a condition we would be in as a party. The state would not only be overrun with re-publican revenue officers and other federal office holders, but the prestige and influence of a republican governor, in addition, would

Butler's advisers urged that to place his objection to co-operation on the ground that the republicans had gotten $100,000 more in offices than the populists had se-cured would have the effect of making the populists appear to be fighting for offices. But this circular was actually printed in a North Carolina paper, much to the an-noyance of Senator Butler, whose modified circular is now drawn up and manifolded ready to send out in a day or two, and this achievements of the republicans in getting $100,000 more offices than the populists se

But the effect of these developments has been to make republicans feel satisfied that Mr. Butler will not vote for reorganization of the United States Senate when such reorganization would give to Senator Pritch-ard the naming of the sergeant-at-arms of the Senate, though, of course, Mr. But-ler's remarks referred to offices within his state. It is possible that this movement may be the cause of defeating the election of Grant and putting in his place the name of some man who can secure one or more doubtful votes, as it was expected the name of Grant would do.

Unequal Distribution.

This new complication in the Senate reorganization project is welcomed with great glee by the democrats, and especially by those whose influence has placed many of their friends in good places. But it is lent work with Tracey and Lambert, and in asserted that the distribution of places the last inning with Dickinson Saturday. among the democratic Senators under the present organization is very unequal. Those who have attempted to trace the present organization is very unequal.

Those who have attempted to trace the relations of the Senate employes to Senators say that Senator Gorman has thirtyseven of his own friends occupying places when the entire number of officers is about 300. This alleged unequal distribution is not generally understood by the democrats themselves, and there are republican Senators who think that if the facts of the present distribution of places in the Senate could be shown it would create discontent that would cause a disaffection among democrats, and that perhaps help could be had to secure a reorganization by the republicans. Whatever the outcome may be, republicans of the Senate are now less sanguine of reorganization than for many weeks LOCAL DEMOCRATIC AFFAIRS.

The New Central Committee About to Be Organized.

Chairman Thomas B. Kalbfus issued call today for a meeting of the democratic central committee at No. 1424 E street northwest next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. The purpose of the meeting will be to orgalize the committee, and much interest is centered upon the question as to who will be chosen chairman. While it has been pretty generally understood that Mr. been pretty generally understood that Mr. Kalbfus would be elected, it now appears that Mr. George Killeen has been put forward as a candidate, while there are rumors that Mr. John A. Clarke is also desirous of the honor.

Mr. Clarke is not a member of the centra committee, but it is said by some of his friends that this obstacle can be overcome by giving him possession of the proxy of the delegate from his district. Those familiar with the rules governing the body, however, declare that no person who holds a proxy is entitled to hold office in the con mittee.

A vacancy in the committee remains to be filled, the fourth district, which embraces part of Georgetown, not being represented. The democrats of that section are endeavoring to settle, upon some one for the posi tion of central committeeman, however, and it is believed that either Mr. Edwin Forrest or Mr. John Maher will be chosen.

The Girls Escaped. Lillie Courtney, Virginia Carson and Louise Harrison, colored, the first two named being eighteen years old, and the latter but seventeen years, inmates of the Girls' Reform School, on the upper Conduit road, managed to escape from the institution Saturday evening just about dusk. The escape was discovered immediately, but no alarm was given, for fear of creating an embryo rlot among the other in-mates. The three managed to sneak away while the supper line was marching, and nothing was done until the other girls were marched back to their rooms and locked in. Word was immediately sent to police headquarters over the telephone, and the police instructed to look out for them. Just as the fugitives reached the limits of Georgetown the police managed to catch Virginia Carson and Louise Harrison. The girls spent Saturday and Sunday night in a cell, and this morning were carried back to the institution, and placed in solitary confinement. Lillie Courtney, the ring-leader, is still at large, but her apprehension is shortly expected. Lillie is the girl who caused the last riot at the school a few weeks ago, just before the death of the former superintendent, Miss Augusta Du Val.

TOMORROW'S GAME.

Georgetown to Play the Strong

Georgetown's base ball season will begin in earnest tomorrow, when the wearers of the blue and the gray meet the Princeton team at Georgetown field. Both teams are, as yet, undefeated, and the fact that Princeton took away the championship from Georgetown last year will only serve to make the latter team play as it never has before. The Georgetown team has shown up well in its games up to date, and it only remains to be seen what they will do against the team from Princeton. The Tigers have not been beaten yet, and will probably reach Washington with a clean record of victories. Their work in the north seems to indicate that the batting of of a republican governor, in addition, would almost crush us and our principles out of sight."

Why the Circular Was Recalled.

It is asserted on what appears to be the most reliable authority that this circular was not only manifolded ready to send out to North Carolina populists, but that it actually reached the post office and was recalled in great haste, because one of Mr. Butler's advisers urged that to place his the team is exceptionally strong, although the team is exceptionally strong that the team is exceptionally strong the team is exceptionally strong the team is exceptionally strong that the team is exceptionally strong the team is exceptionally strong the team is exceptionally strong the tea

Text of a Bill Introduced by Representative Meiklejohn.

Mr. Meiklejohn of Nebraska has introduced in the House a bill to protect commerce and to countervail foreign discriminating duties, exactions and conditions. It provides that whenever and so often as any foreign nation, country or colony thereof shall impose or levy any discriminating duty or exaction, or shall otherwise impose any condition having like effect upon the produce, manufactures or merchandise, the growth or product of the United States, or shall advance or increase its open or concealed export bounty or premium upon its own produce, manufacture or merchandise above the export bounty or premium existing January 1, 1835, the President of the United States shall have the power, and it shall be his duty, to declare the and it shall be his duty, to declare the same by proclamation; whereupon the Secretary of the Treasury is empowered, and it shall be his duty, to definitely determine the amount and state the effect of such discriminating duty or exaction or condition imposed, or the amount of such increase of export bounty or premium, and communicate the facts to the President, who shall thereupon, and to countervail said discriminating duty, exaction, condition, imposed or increased bounty, or premium, direct the Secretary of the Treasury to advance or increase the rate of ury to advance or increase the rate of duty then imposed by law on such pro-ducts, imported from such nations, as he may designate, to an amount equal to the discriminating duty or exaction or increased export bounty or premium, and such increased duty is hereby declared and levied accordingly, subject to the ac-tion of the President, as herein declared.

The second section provides that in case any nation, country or colony thereof shall prohibit the entry into its ports of any produce, manufacture or merchandise duly inspected by the United States where inspection is required, it shall be the duty of the President to prohibit entry into the ports of the United States of like or such other articles of said nation, country or colony thereof as shall be designated by

For the Family of Hunter. The contributions from employes of the Treasury Department for the family of George E. Hunter, the mechanic who was injured by one of the new treasury elevators in the west wing several days ago, now in course of construction, are coming in at a rapid rate and a neat sum has been raised. The movement was started by Mr. Lindsay, who is employed in the office of the auditor for the Interior Department, and it has exvision in the whole department. The aggregate sum is now $245.45, and this will prove a great help to the family of the unfortunate man. Hunter is now at the Emer-gency Hospital, where the physicians in charge are awaiting the result of an operation of trephining which was performed soon after the accident occurred. Hunter's family consists of a wife and eight children. The contributions and the offices which have given them are as follows: Auditor for Interior Department, $26; treasurer's office, $45.65; internal revenue bureau, $33.20; life saving service, $7.50; light house board, $7.75; auditor for Treasury Department, $17; assistant superintendent's office, $2.45; auditor for Navy Department, $7.50; controller of treasury, $6.25; register's office, $15.25; auditor for State Department, $10.25; watch force, $13.75; controller of the currency, $11.25; treasury branch of government printing office, $13.10; appointment division, $5.25; employes of subbasement, $8.30; miscella-neous contributions, $13; total, $245.45.

The money has been turned over by Mr. Lindsay to Mrs. Hunter, and he holds her receipt for the amount. The office of the supervising architect sent $32.50 by messenger to Mrs. Hunter, which makes the whole amount contributed $277.45.
